WHOLE NUMBER 1412

Henry Wins Judgship

Schoolboard Races Close Probably Scrambled

With a fairly large vote cast at the election on Tuesday, C. P. Henry's election for county judge over W. A. Caskey seems assured. With 13 precincts out of the 28 in the county counted up to this time, Henry has to his credit 1551 votes as against 966 recorded for Caskey.

The school board races, however, are causing the most confusion and feeling. Totals in these races for the first 13 precincts in the county are as follows: J. V. Henry 1409, George W. Barber 1225, J. B. May 1221, Harlen Murphy 1161, Rollie Wilson 1136, W. B. Wells 1111, J. H. Roberson trailing away behind.

It is still anybody's race. It is indicated that neither side will come thru with a whole slate.

The work of the tabulators is a real job. There are three sets of tickets for each precinct and in the school board races the position of the names on the ballot continually changes. We hope to be able to give a complete tabulated vote next week in all the county races.

TOWN ELECTION

According to the voting on Tuesday there will be three new men on the town board of trustees commencing Jan. 1, 1938. Lynn B. Reed and John Turner are the holdover members and F. S. Brong, W. D. Reed, and R. J. Poynter will be the new members. The total vote of all candidates was as follows:

For Police Judge
A. J. Williams	26
John Helton	74
For Board of Trustees
F. S. Brong	193
W. D. Reed	184
W. H. Childers	162
Lynn B. Reed	211
John Turner	180
R. J. Poynter	189

Eastern Kentucky Teachers Meet

The Eastern Kentucky Education association will meet at Ashland on Nov. 11, 12, and 13. Ova O. Haney, superintendent of Morgan county schools, is president of the association, and Harlen R. Brown, also a native of Morgan county, is secretary-treasurer of the association. Besides the general sessions, the program provides special department meetings to meet the requirements of the various educational activities of the district.

Elsie Sebastian Makes History

Mrs. Elsie Sebastian of the local chapter of the Eastern Star, after having been installed as worthy grand matron of the grand chapter of Kentucky at Louisville last week, named her husband, Walter Sebastian, as organist for the grand chapter for the ensuing year. The honor is deserved and met with hearty applause.

Revival Continues

The revival meeting at the West Liberty Baptist church, Rev. B. H. Kazee of Morehead preaching, continues with good attendance and increased interest each night.

The Peoples Store can supply you with anything in the line of general merchandise. (Adv.)

Doc Kegley had business in Lee City yesterday.

BOB WHITT KILLED

Uncle Bob Whitt, aged about 60, was shot and instantly killed Tuesday when he undertook to arrest Elzie Perry, who with another young man was leaving a scene of disturbance at Wrigley, in the north edge of the county.

Whitt was called on account of the disturbance and was accompanied by other officials. Perry is in the hospital here with wounds which may be fatal. No shots were fired except those exchanged between Whitt and Perry.

LIGHT AND POWER FOR EZEL

The Kentucky Edison Light Company located at Stanton is preparing to ask for a franchise to build and operate a light and power plant at Ezel in this county. The Company's schedule of rates are, all things considered very reasonable and are as follows: 10 cents per K. W. H. for first 40 K W, 6 cents per K. W. H. for second 40 K W, 3 cents per K. W. H. for next 120 K W 2 cents per K. W. H. for all current above that. Minimum charge per month $1.50.

The light company requires local people to put up capital to build the necessary lines and will repay its members on a basis of 10 percent rebate on their monthly bills. The local interest in Ezel is at a high pitch and they are looking forward to the realization of a hope long deferred.

"LABOR"

"There is nothing truly valuable which can be purchased without pains and labour."— Addison.

"Nature is inexhaustible and untiring labor is a god which rejuvenates her."— Voltaire.

"God never punishes man for doing right, for honest labor, or for deeds of kindness, though they expose him to fatigue, cold, heat, contagion."— Mary Baker Eddy.

"If little labor, little are our gains; Man's fortunes are according to his pains."— Robert Herrick.

"Labour is discovered to be the grand conqueror, enriching and building up nations more surely than the proudest battles."— William Ellery Channing.

CANNEL CITY CHURCH

Rev. W. W. Garriot filled his regular appointment at the Union church the fourth Sunday. A wonderful message was delivered from these words, "The Open Window" Dan. 6:10, showing what courage it took for Daniel to kneel and pray three times each day, after the decree had been signed by the King. This inspiring sermon should be the means of God's children, taking new courage to press on in the battle against evil.

For the evening from Malachi, 3:10 a very beautiful and interesting picture was drawn, of the great power of God, if we as individuals would only give him a chance. "Giving Jesus a Chance" was the main theme for the evening, and this was thoroughly demonstrated in the cleansing of the lepers, by trusting and obeying.

On the fifth Sunday Bro. Garriot preached at the morning hour, and Bro. Earl E. Morris the Baptist minister in the evening.

In that sweet, kindly, fearless, manner Bro. Morris came with a message from Matt. 22:42. "What think ye of Christ? Whose son is He?" This wonderful discourse held the congregation spellbound for forty minutes. I thank God in this educational period we have some God fearing men. Never was there greater need for ministers whom the Holy Ghost can use. The Holy Ghost does not flow through methods, but through men. Rev. J. F. Walters will preach Saturday evening, Sunday morning and Sunday evening. Everyone is cordially invited.

AMENDMENTS DEFEATED

Two constitutional amendments were submitted to the voters at the regular election this year. If the returns available at this time are a true indication of the result, both have been overwhelmingly defeated.

Both amendments were submitted in such a way as to be unintelligible to at least 99 percent of the voters. One referred to a certain section of the constitution which a majority of the legislators who submitted the proposition could not quote correctly. The other referred to an act of assembly in which is outlined the purpose of the amendment.

The time may come when it may be really necessary to change certain parts of our state constitution. Many thoughtful persons think the time is already here.

If there is any virtue in government, a legislative body ought so to conduct itself as to keep or gain the confidence of the people whose servants they are supposed to be.

Can a people respect a legislature which tries to fool them to do that which they do not want to do?

If, in the future, the legislature feels that the welfare of our people demands a change in our constitution, it should submit that change in a way that the voter will know the how and the why. Amendments in Kentucky will then receive the consideration they may deserve.

Any submitted amendment should set forth in full the text of the portion of the constitution to be changed and then the exact reading of the text as proposed.

Some sane way of putting the whole matter before the voters should then be followed.

The Kentucky voter is very much interested in Kentucky. He is eager to learn of anything pertaining to her welfare. Whether he was wise or not in defeating the present amendments is beside the point. He felt that a trap had been set for him. And feeling as he did, one could not expect anything but what has happened.

BOYS' BOYS' BOYS!

Secret stuff! Inside football! Want to know what makes a big college football team click; what makes a quarterback suddenly decide to use certain plays; and why plans and strategy are suddenly shifted in the middle of a big game?

Dizzy heights; giant girders swinging into place; hot bolts hissing thru the air, the rattle of pneumatic hammers! A skyscraper is going up. High in the air catfooted men in grimy overalls with gloved hands are climbing nimbly around on the great steel spiderweb they are erecting. You wonder how these fellows up there feel; where they get the nerve to work so high in the air. Wonder how long they last before they come to some violent end.

The last of the six-gun sheriffs of the old west is Jack Abernathy. He lived in the days when his smoking guns brought law and order to the frontier of New Mexico and Oklahoma. He caught wolves with his bare hands.

ROE

Powell Henry Roe died on the Rollie Cecil farm near Grassy Creek where he had lived for forty years on Oct. 30, 1937, aged 65 years, 11 months, and 14 days.

He was married in 1893 to Lula Gibson, who survives him. He is survived also by six children: Kelly Roe of Middletown, Ohio; Leslie Roe, Liberty Road; Russell Roe, Grassy Creek; and Pearl, Dorsie, and Dillard Roe, at home.

The family has lost a loving husband and father. The community has lost a man honest in all his endeavors and always interested in the welfare of others. He will be much missed.

We extend to the bereaved family our sympathy in this hour of sorrow.

Funeral services were held on Sunday morning, Oct. 31, at the home, with Reverends Harlan McClure and Jim Wheeler in charge. Burial was in the Flat Woods cemetery.

LADIES AID MEETING

The Ladies Aid of Cannel City Union church met with Mrs. Ova Ratliff October 28. Members present were Mrs. D. P. Peyton, Mrs. Thomas Davis, Mrs. W. T. Stamper, Mrs. J. W. Benton, Mrs. Carl Burton, Mrs. Katie Sebastian, Mrs. S. C. Carter, Mrs. M. H. Ferguson, Mrs. Inez Donovan, Mrs. Ova Ratliff, Miss Allene Zornes, Miss Minor. One visitor Mrs. J. D. Whiteaker. First hymn was "God Will Take Care of You" the second was "The Way of the Cross Leads Home." Mrs. Ratliff read as the devotional a part of St. John 6 and Mrs. Whiteaker lead in prayer. Work was then begun on the quilt and progressed nicely.

During the social hour the hostess assisted by Miss Zornes served vanilla wafers and hot tea. After a pleasant afternoon, we adjourned to meet with Mrs. Carl Burton November 11.

FARMERS' COLUMN

MORE LIVESTOCK

Needing more livestock to consume the large crops of hay, grass and other feed, eastern Kentucky farmers are building up their herds and flocks, says the college of agriculture at Lexington. The hill counties once produced large numbers of cattle and sheep. Then cattle raising lost ground, and the sheep industry all but disappeared.

Six hundred cross-bred Western ewes and 25 purebred Southdown rams recently were taken into Johnson county, and there is an active demand for breeding cattle and ewes in several eastern counties.

In the north-central county of Grant, farmers began increasing livestock production, following the report of a county planning committee. The committee assorted the land according to its best uses—the kind that performs well under intense cultivation, tobacco growing and general crop production; the kind that grows good legumes and does well for dairying; and finally the hills, fit best for sheep and beef cattle.

Several carloads of Western ewes have been purchased by Grant county farmers owning hilly land the first to go into the county in years. Several farmers also are building up breeding flocks, while others are developing dairy herds or adding to their beef herds.

FARMERS BEGIN F. S. A. REPAYMENTS

F. H. Byars, County Supervisor in charge of the Rural Rehabilitation program of the Farm Security administration in Morgan County, states that a total of $3,380,662.45 has been repaid by farmers in this 5-state region, farming under supervised Rural Rehabilitation loans during the past two years, according to figures received from George S. Mitchell, Regional Director, of the F. S. A. in Raleigh.

Of this amount, $105,017.99 was repaid in one week ending October 6. The rural rehabilitation program which Congress recently voted to continue in connection with the new farm tenancy program is now being administered as a major function of the Farm Security Administration. The Rural Rehabilitation program includes debt adjustment and supervised loans for crop production and for the purchase of livestock and equipment. Where terms of tenure are satisfactory, loans also are made to include for soil improvement.

The loans are made to worthy farmers with approved land resources including tenants - who are unable to secure proper credit from other sources. Loans are repayable over a period ranging from one to five years, depending upon the amount of the loan used for livestock and equipment or other capital goods useful over a period of years. Mr. Earl Mayhew of Lexington, Kentucky is State Director in charge of this phase of the Farm Security Work.

Mr. Byars also informs this paper that there has been a change of his office day. From this date on Mr. Byars will be in his office on Saturday mornings instead of on Wednesday mornings. This change was made because farmers prefer coming into the County-seat on Saturday rather than on other week days.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

The purposes of this organization are:

1. "To develop competent, aggressive rural and agricultural leadership." To accomplish this Future Farmers assume responsibility and are that measure of competent guidance to assure the successful completion of worthwhile undertakings. All activities undertaken by a chapter setting up their own program of activities each year. Each member is encouraged to assume responsibility in order that he may be able to carry the burden of leadership that falls upon the shoulders of local leaders in every community.

2. "To strengthen the confidence of the farm boy in himself and his work." In order to do this the organization provides that each member may advance from grade to grade upon the basis of achievement. opportunity is given for each to measure his agriculture and other achievements and other skills and to independent decisions. Suitable awards are made to those individuals and groups proving especially capable and worthy of recognition in chapter state association and national organization.

3. "To create more interest in the intelligent choice of farming occupations."

4. "To create and nurture a love of country life."

5. "To improve the rural home and its surroundings." This is done by doing such things as improvement and beautification of the farm home and school grounds, providing labor-saving devices and modern conveniences, conservation projects, outings, and travel projects all makes for the increased appreciation of country life and the home.

6. "To encourage co-operative effort among students of vocational education in agriculture." Members avail themselves of the opportunity to co-operate in the purchase of pure seed, fertilizers, feed and the like, as well as to pool and to sell co-operatively the farm products which are a result of their supervised farming work. Likewise, they act co-operatively for recreational purposes, for conservation of natural resources, in fire prevention, group insurance, group credit, relief of distress, and a multitude of other ventures adapted to group action.

7. "To promote thrift among students of vocational agriculture through the establishment of savings accounts and investments in agricultural enterprises."

8. "To promote and improve scholarship." High standard of classroom and supervised farming achievement are demanded of members who advance from one degree to another.

9. "To encourage organized recreational activities among students of vocational agriculture." Chapters hold Father-Son banquets, go on vacation tours, hold summer camps and picnics and a variety of group activities of an athletic character suitable to the season and facilities of the rural community. The Kentucky Association which is composed of the local chapters own their own camp at Hardinsburg which was an abandoned C. C. C. camp. These buildings were donated by the Federal Government to the Stoll Association if they secured the land where the buildings were located, this they did last year. To them several hundred dollars have been donated by individuals and people interested in the boys. Local and state judging contests, agricultural plays, minstrels, public speaking contests, bands, orchestras, and similar activities contribute to valuable outcomes of a recreational character.

10. "To supplement the regular systematic instruction offered to students of vocational education in agriculture." This is accomplished through self-teaching devices because the boy-initiated and boy-directed activities included in the programs of work provide a wealth of actual practical experience which otherwise might not be available to the student. Such experience further improves the member as a farmer and as a citizen.

11. "To advance the cause of vocational education in agriculture in the public schools." ROY NICKELL

Turkey Raisers in Meeting

A state wide meeting of turkey growers will be held at the agricultural experiment station at Lexington on Nov. 11. A state turkey show will be held at the same time. Last year Mrs. Flave Cecil of this county won nice honors at this show.

SAVE TOBACCO STALKS

Tobacco stalks thrown out into the weather when stripping is done lose much of their fertilizer value.

The Kentucky college of agriculture says that a ton of stalks from Burley tobacco contains about 60 pounds of nitrogen and 65 pounds of potash. At 15c a pound for nitrogen and 5c a pound for potash, a ton of Burley stalks is worth $12.25. If stalks cannot be kept inside, they should be scattered on the land as soon as possible after stripping.

BANNER SCHOOL NEWS

We gave a pie supper at the Banner School last Saturday night October 30. The house was crowded with people from the school community, and many people outside the community attended.

Rett Brown the ace auctioneer of Morgan County, was Master of Ceremonies. He gave us many good laughs, good wholesome entertainment, and kept the whole crowd in good cheer. Frank Shaver of Pomp and Roscoe Hutchison of Morehead assisted Mr. Brown in his work.

There were twenty-five pies brought which brought a total of $12.35. The highest pie sold was Miss Bernice McClain's. It was sold to Bill Johnson for $1.35.

The ugly man contest brought in $1.05.

The beauty contest was won by Miss Goldie Williams of Ashland. She was entered in the race by Mr. Eulas Tremble who made it his business to see that Miss Williams won.

Lois Haney of West Liberty was runner up in the beauty contest.

The contest was very warm and interesting and brought in to the school a total of $12.30.

$1.00 worth of candy was sold. So our pie supper made the school a total of $26.70 all of which will be spent for the benefit of Banner school.

The pupils, patrons, and teacher of our school wish to thank all our visitors for helping us to make our pie supper a success, and the teacher is thankful that he has a community to teach in where the pupils and patrons are always ready to help their school. DEWARD DENNIS

STRESS BETTER LEASES

The Farm Security Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will stress better leasing arrangements between landlords and tenants in the interest of both parties to the contract and as an aid to the success of its program. F. H. Byars, County Rural Rehabilitation Supervisor for the FSA announced from his office in West Liberty.

According to Mr. Byars, the need for better lease contracts, including such provisions as longer rental periods, security to the landlord for the protection of his property and security to the tenant for reimbursement for improvements made by him, has been brought convincingly to the attention of supervisors during the past two years in connection with their program to help financially handicapped farmers and tenants to get on their feet again by means of Rehabilitation supervised loans, a work which since Resettlement's recent liquidation, is being carried on by supervisors under the newly established Farm Security Administration. A large percentage of farmers needing these Rehabilitation loans are tenants, he said, and it has been found easier to work out a sound farm plan for families who have satisfactory leasing contracts.

In many cases the applicant for these loans needs credit not only for which can be taken with him if he is required to move—but also credit for soil improvement items, such as lime and seed for permanent pasture, the returns from which the tenant will not be able to realize in dollars and cents the first year and which he cannot take away with him when he moves.

Rehabilitation supervised loans are repayable over a period of from one to five years, the longer period being provided to give the borrower more time in which to pay for these items which are expected to produce results over a period of years. Where such applicant is a tenant, a satisfactory leasing arrangement makes it easier, other qualifications and conditions being favorable, to work out a practical farm plan with suitable crop rotation and to extend the loan over the longer period. In many cases, it has been found impossible to work out a suitable farm plan or to approve a loan until a satisfactory lease has been secured.

Now that the Farm Security Administration has been set up to tackle the farm tenancy problem, Security of farm tenure, whether by tenants or owners, has been recognized as the real goal, Mr. Byars said.

"One road to security of tenure is by ownership, but appropriations, for the present at least, are so limited that loans to buy farms can be made to only a small percentage of tenants desiring farms of their own. The Rural Rehabilitation supervised loans (which do not include money for land purchase) will continue as the major activity of the FSA. Therefore the second road to security of tenure must be emphasized, namely, better leases, improved relationship between landlord and tenant. The problem resolves itself into one of developing a leasing contract which will give the tenant more interest in co-operating with the owner in making improvements for their mutual advantages."

Mr. Byars stated that his agency is working hand in hand with the Extension Service, Agricultural Colleges and other agencies which have been stressing the need for better leases in an educational way but that FSA finds it necessary to meet the problem in a practical way because of the fact that his agency's loan and farm management system is designed to work in the interest of both landlord and tenant, it is believed that a practical incentive for better leases has been found and that in time, with the continued co-operation of the above named educational agencies, this common incentive for the better leases will be generally recognized.

Appointed Purse Bearer

At the meeting of grand chapter in Louisville, Paulina chapter no. 360, O.E.S., of West Liberty, was again honored by giving one of its efficient members a responsible position. Mrs. Maude Perry was given a five year appointment as treasurer on the home and relief fund committee of the grand chapter.

In giving a list of those from here who attended grand chapter of the Eastern Star at Louisville last week, we inadvertently omitted the name of Mrs. Auty McClain. Mrs. McClain enjoyed the sessions very much.

Bruce McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. McKenzie had his eye operated on and can now see to read. He is attending the university at Urbana, Illinois. His brother, Wyck, is there working in a cafe and has taken up two subjects. They write their parents that they are getting along well.

ELECTRIC SERVICE WITH SAFETY

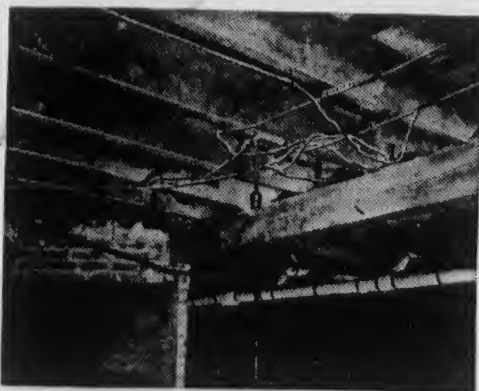

The Principles of Safety Applied to Wiring

Records show that the use of electricity in homes has doubled since 1920. Electricity is becoming such a common servant in American households that we sometimes fail to realize now many times we use it every day. Each year new ways are discovered to make electricity do more of the housewife's work.

Along with this widespread increase in use, should go a working knowledge of how to care for electrical equipment and keep it serviceable and safe. It is common knowledge that electricity is perfectly safe when properly used but there are certain rules which should be observed to keep it safe at all times. It is the purpose of this series of articles to review these rules. There are five fundamental principles for the safe use of electricity in the home. These are:

1. Use electrical materials suitable for the job at hand.
2. Keep electrical equipment in good order.
3. Do not tamper with appliances or other electrical equipment.
4. Avoid handling electrical cords and devices with wet hands.
5. Do not use electrical equipment adjacent to water or in damp places unless special precautions have been used.

These principles can apply to all uses of electricity, and if observed, will go far in eliminating shock and fire hazards. Particular applications of these rules to some of the common household hold appliances will be discussed later in this series.

The electrical equipment in a house could be divided for the sake of discussion into wiring, and appliances. This installment will be confined to wiring. Most house wiring is located within the walls and therefore is concealed from view. There is little that a householder can do toward keeping the concealed wiring in good order; he simply must hope that a good job was done when the house was built. In building a new house, however, or in having an old house rewired, he should make sure that established rules and practices are followed. Fortunately, a set of rules has been drawn up for safe practices in house wiring, known as the National Electrical Code. This Code is applied by electrical inspectors over the entire country. It is revised periodically by a Committee of the National Fire Protection Association and has been accepted as an American Standard by the American Standards Association. The Code recognizes a number of different types of wiring, all of which are perfectly safe when properly installed. Which type of wiring should be used in a particular case depends upon the character and location of the house, and local ordinances.

Whenever new wiring is to be done, or when additions, alterations or repairs are needed, dependence should not be placed on an inexperienced handyman, for in this way the safety of the whole installation may be impaired. It is best to have the work done by a capable authorized contractor. In most localities electrical inspectors are employed to inspect under the rules of the Code and to approve new wiring and repairs. Experienced electricians know the Code rules and will do the job so that it can be approved by the inspector.

Wires are sometimes exposed in attics and basements in these locations the householder should see that the wires are protected against injury. If discarded furniture or trunks are stored in the attic they should not be allowed to touch the wires. Allowing electrical equipment to fall into disrepair is responsible for most of the fires charged against electrical service. It must be remembered that regardless of external appearances, fixtures and wires behind the fixtures are just as much "alive" as they were originally, and require the same protection and consideration. When sockets, outlets or switches become broken or become loosened from their proper positions, or whenever it is possible to obtain a shock from electrical equipment, a repair should be made promptly.

Allowing attachment cords and extension cords to become worn to the point where the wires are exposed, is unwise. Such cords should be replaced before they become fire and shock hazards. In having cords replaced see that the new cords are of standard quality. Cords approved as complying with the safety standards of Underwriters' Laboratories have bracelet-like labels wrapped around each length, and it is wise to see that labeled cords are employed in all cases.

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the International Association of Electrical Inspectors to encourage safety in the use of electricity in homes.

WILLIAMS CREEK SCHOOL

We are enjoying our school work just fine and are striving to make this the best year in the history of the school.

We were very glad to have Messrs. Feltner, assistant Four-H Club leader, and Wrather, county agent, with us last week and we are looking forward to the time we have a club organized in our district.

Ottis McGuire, helping teacher, paid us a short visit Oct. 28. We are looking forward to another and longer call in the near future.

We entered the county fair this year for the first time and brought five blue ribbons home with us. How are we doing?

We have had several visitors this month: Mrs. Ray Williams, Mrs. Leonard Adkins, Messrs. Leonard Adkins, Delbert Ferguson, Delmer Bolin, W. A. Lacey, J. T. Pelfrey, Ottis McGuire, Hubert Ferguson, and Clayton Doolin. We are glad to have had them and invite them to come at any and all times.

The following pupils have perfect attendance records for the entire year: Mabel Lacey, Randal Pelfrey, Josephine Ferguson, James Gullett.

These books have been added to our reading table: Little Women, Little Men, Jack and Jill, Pinocchio, Kidnapped, Treasure Island, Swiss Family Robinson, Black Beauty, Alice in Wonderland, Robinson Crusoe, Tom Brown's School Days, King Arthur and His Knights, The Gold Bug, Robin Hood, and Tom Sawyer.

We are planning a Thanksgiving program. We hope you will help and support us by coming to see it.

We would be glad to have our superintendent and attendance officer pay us a call. What about it, Mr. Haney and Mr. Pelfrey?—Mabel Lacey, Wainona Williams, Opal Ferguson, Berleen Williams, eighth grade pupils.

PEKIN SCHOOL NEWS

Our school is progressing nicely. Honor roll students for the third month were as follows: Grade 2—Jeanne Combs and Calvin Noe, Grade 3—Junior Denniston, Grade 5—Pauline Long, Grade 6—Nancy Ward.

We were very much pleased to have our helping teacher Miss Edith Ward with us Monday and also Mr. Lester Reed, helping teacher of another division, who was here seeing about our coal.

The Pekin P. T. A. met Wednesday night and decided on two plays that will be given at a later date. The names of the plays are "Henry's Mail Order Wife" and "One Minute of Twelve." Teacher, CHRISTINE LEWIS.

TAXING THE UNTAXABLE

News dispatches from Washington inform us that Treasury Department experts are at work on a general tax revision bill, trying to whip it into shape for consideration by the next congress.

Welcome news in connection with this proposed revision is that various suggestions are being studied to remove the tax exemption feature of federal, state and local bonds, and also from the salaries of federal, state and local government employes in this country.

The tax exemptions long granted this class of securities, now said to total something like $40,000,000,000, and the array of government jobholders, now in excess of 2,500,000, have robbed the government treasury of much additional income.

There may have been a time when sound arguments existed for such tax favoritism to government securities and personell. But that time has long since passed. Our burden of national debt, as well as the constantly increasing cost of government, requires that every invested dollar, as well as every worker who receives a sizeable wage or salary, must assist in meeting the tremendous cost of ruling ourselves.

Kentuckian Citizen.

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

Recently the writer received an interesting book on the subject "was Jesus Crucified on Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday." This is technically interesting; however, the important thing is not what day Jesus was crucified. The important fact is that He was crucified. The Bible is very definite in its teaching about the death of Jesus. Jesus said that He had the power to lay His life down and He had the power to take it again. He said that no man could take His life. According to the Bible, Jesus did not die just a martyr's death. There is something about the death of Jesus that is not true about the death of any one else. His death was vicarious and substitutional. He died on our account. He died in our place. He paid the debt. Men say the theories of the atonement have changed. That is true. But the Bible teaching about the atonement has not changed. God makes it plain in His word that Jesus was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities. He bore our sins in His body on a cross.

In the Garden of Gethsemane when perspiration like drops of blood fell from the brow of our Lord He prayed that "this cup may pass from Me if it be Thy will." What did He mean by that prayer? Some say that He prayed the prayer because His humanity shrank from the thought of death. Others say that since He was the sinless Son of God the horror of bearing the sin of the world overwhelmed Him. It is not my desire to be dogmatic, but I believe He was praying to be delivered from death in the Garden. It is the writer's opinion that Satan concentrated all of his demons on that one spot, and that Jesus under the assault felt as if life was about to slip away and He prayed to be delivered from death in the Garden. I think this is set forth clearly in Hebrews. I am positive that Jesus never prayed to stay off the cross. He said, "I, if I be lifted up from the ground will draw all men to Me." This does not apply to His resurrection, although the resurrection was essential. According to the verse which follows the quotation Jesus said this referring to the manner of death He should die. The prophetic finger had pointed to the cross. "Cursed is every one that hangeth on the tree." It was there that atonement was made for the sins of the world.

DEVELOP CHARACTER

Now that our schools and colleges have all gotten under way it might be wise to look backward and see what was taught fifty years ago. Fifty years ago character was developed by discipline, endurance, instruction and example. Character is as important to be developed in the student as the brain, for a boy with a well developed brain and no character is likely to become a dangerous criminal while a boy with a well developed character and little brain may cut no figure in the world but neither will he do any damage.

The reason there are chapel exercises in most of the schools is because it was popular fifty years ago. Now it is perfunctory. Education should not consist entirely of a study of books but ethics should be taught, the proper relations between boys and girls, between teachers and scholars. This must be primarily taught in the home, and the home consisting of the father and mother or either one must insist that character study is as important for their children in the school as book study. In the formative period of young life self-denial can be taught in the school, forgiveness can be taught in the school, kindness and all of the other Christian virtues should be part of the objects of the school. It is better to have our children with good characters than well developed brains and if character teaching was indulged in colleges and high schools as much as brain development is taught there would be no more high school boys holding up banks but a different destiny for our nation which rests in the hands of parents of children today.—Elizabethtown News.

Apples and Tomatoes Novel Combination

Apple puree adds an elusive flavor to this molded tomato aspic which forms a colorful well for Waldorf salad. The tomato and apple aspic also may be molded in a shallow pan, cut in squares when jellied and served as an accompaniment for roast pork or ham.

APPLES never cease to be a culinary wonder. They have a way of turning up in the most surprising disguise to add zest to a dish that delights the epicure.

Tomato aspic is the latest dish to acquire a keener palate appeal through the subtle blending of apple puree with the mixture. The result is an aspic that from all physical characteristics has undergone no change. There is a marked improvement in flavor, however, for the apple puree adds an elusive, indescribable quality that definitely gives the tomato aspic more character.

A ring of tomato and apple aspic forms a colorful circle and interesting flavor contrast for Waldorf, mixed raw vegetable or seafood salads. The tested recipe follows:

Tomato and Apple Aspic

1 cup canned or	1 tablespoon sugar
cooked tomatoes	2 bay leaves
(rubbed through	6 cloves
strainer)	2 tablespoons gelatin
1 cup cooked apples	1/4 cup cold water
(rubbed through a	1/2 teaspoon salt
strainer)	1/2 teaspoon pepper

Soak gelatin for five minutes in cold water. Boil the tomato puree for a few minutes with the bay leaves, cloves and sugar. Add the hot tomato puree to the dissolved gelatin, straining out the spices. Add apple puree, salt and pepper, and pour into molds which have been rinsed with cold water. Set in refrigerator to stiffen. The mixture may be poured into a pan and when stiff cut into squares for serving. Serve on a lettuce leaf or with a garnish of chicory or water cress with mayonnaise.

Yield: 4 to 6 individual molds.

"Do You Know?"

Helen Stacy isn't rating as high with timekeepers as she'd like to. Lurlene Reed is trying to make a good assistant timekeeper and she's succeeding very well.

Sally Pelfrey still has the job of concrete inspector of Mt. Sterling, but she also gives her approval on filling stations in Detroit.

Viva Bowles is still hunting for scrap iron and getting baits ready for fishing.

Rex Little is catching the seniors' Byrd.

Helen Jean Cox seems to be sure of her man. You can never tell about these men, Helen.

Ella Ruth Childers and boy friend seem to be progressing nicely.

Altha Martha is little she goes in for big men (Fugitt, for instance).

Lucile Nickell likes fish better every day.

What two senior girls like paw paws and square dances?

Aihleen Davis sure likes fresh water. It's either Dick's Dam or Wells.

Well, Lena and Ethel Mae, how did our Pikeville trip turn out?

Chapel Program

Last week's chapel program was presented by sophomore A class under sponsorship of Mr. McGure. Jessie Tyree read from the Bible, then led us in repeating the Lord's prayer. Marie Henry gave a humorous reading from "The Bad Boy's Diary," and Naomia Meadows recited the poem, "Butt Right In."

Lawrence Byrd read jokes on some of the faculty and students. Jesse and Vic Cottle played the violin and guitar, respectively, and sang "Home on the Range." Then they played "An Oldtime Break-down."

This Friday's chapel program will be presented by Roy Nickell's sophomore B class.

Senior French Club

The senior French club had its first meeting last Friday afternoon. The members sang two French songs, "Meunier Tu Dors" and "Frere Jacques."

They played "Questions and Answers," and Miss McClure read a French story entitled "Les Trois Ours."

Refreshments of candy and apples were served by Delphia McClure and Osie Wingo.

First Grade News

Freshmen: Opal Caudill, Helen Elam, Jean Whitt, Clemma Lewis, Ova Tyree, Delores Elam, Imogene Adams.

Eighth grade: Lavodus Lykins.

French Club

The junior French club held its first meeting last Friday morning and began its program by singing French songs.

Athaleen Lawson gave a talk on the French language and its benefits. Jesse Cottle told of the life of Joan of Arc. The members played "Cross Questions and Silly Answers," and Miss McClure read a French story. Refreshments were served.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

The sophomore 2B class under the sponsorship of Roy Nickell presented an interesting chapel program Friday, Oct. 29.

Jean Potter opened the program by reading a portion of Corinthians and leading us in repeating the Lord's prayer. The audience joined in singing "Nellie Gray."

Arthur Johnson read Mark Twain's humorous "Uncle Daniel's Prayer." Nell and Wanda Lee Gevedon sang "Amber Tresses" and "We Parted by the Riverside."

A quartet composed of Jean Potter, Nell Gevedon, Wanda Gevedon, and Arthur Johnson sang two religious songs. Clifton Pelfrey gave a humorous reading entitled "Try This Dish." Mabel McKenzie read jokes on some of the pupils and teachers.

Reverend B. H. Kazee gave a short religious talk, and will have charge of this Friday's chapel program.

ESSENTIALS OF PROFITABLE STUDY

From the first grade on thru college a number of failures occur to a large number of pupils.

The causes of these failures could possibly be laid to a number of things, but the majority could easily be seen in the lack of profitable studying on the pupil's part.

But can we blame the pupil? From the fifth grade on thru college, the child is commanded to "study" his or her lessons and never once do we as teachers try to help the child set up a study code or standardized study habits which are most conducive to profitable study. Study is the most important activity of all students and should be taught. A study plan must be regularly used so that it will become automatic.

The essentials of profitable study are:

1. To know specifically what is meant by study, which is that conscious, purposeful, systematic, creative activity in which a specific problem is attacked for the purpose of solution; in which specific ideas are digested; in which definite questions are raised in light of the problem; and in which genuine use is made of what is learned.
2. Know specifically what to study and why.
3. Form a time and place habit by studying the lesson in the same place and at the same time each day.
4. Have proper study conditions and equipment such as fresh air, good light, straight chair, study table, necessary books and tools, cleanliness, and orderliness. Make use of the title page and preface.
5. Budget your time according to your need. Study those subjects requiring much attention first, and those requiring notebook last.
6. Sit straight and go to work vigorously, consciously, and with a burning desire to know something. When actually tired, exercise a bit with the windows open. Avoid lounging and waste of time.
7. Be clear on the assignment and the form in which it is to be worked up. Take careful notes when the assignment is made. Mark things to be carefully studied. When in doubt, consult your teacher.
8. Study independently.
9. Hold yourself responsible for what you have learned. Study carefully from the whole to the parts. Interpret and digest the printed material.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Women's Missionary society of the M. E. church met for regular business Oct. 14 at the home of Mrs. Earl Price.

Mrs. James Franklin, vice president, took the chair. The meeting opened by singing "Help Somebody Today." Prayer was offered by the new pastor, W. W. Garriott.

Minutes were read and approved. The roll was called and each member present answered with a scripture verse. The social service committee reported $11 donations and 59 visits to the sick. Four subscribers to World Outlook were reported. The membership committee reported two new members—Mrs. W. W. Garriott and Mrs. George Cook.

The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. J. D. Whiteaker. Nineteen members were present. The hostess served a lovely plate lunch.

Habits are either a blessing or a bane, and each one makes his own.
